Letter of support to the project of the International Mathematical Union to have UNESCO declare March 14th as the International Day of Mathematics

On behalf of Tunisian women mathematicians, the TWMA supports the project of the International Mathematical Union to have UNESCO declare March 14th as the International Day of Mathematics.

Indeed, we are convinced that such an initiative can only enhance the mathematical sciences that deserve an international celebration, which will further motivate young people all over the world to take an interest in this powerful field of human evolution.

We very much hope that this international day will be declared at the next UNESCO General Conference at the end of 2019, which will give a first celebration in Paris on March 14, 2020. We will be happy to co-organize in Tunisia celebrations of this international day.
